EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORT

The Executive Committee of ATLA did not hold a mid-winter meeting because there was not enough business to justify the travel expenses. Several matters not requiring action were reported to the Executive Committee by the President, and a vote-by-mail authorized the Executive Secretary to purchase a small number of copies of the recent issue of Library Trends on "Current Trends in Theological Libraries."

The Lilly Endowment, Inc., has made payment for the second year of its three-year grant for scholarships directly to the Treasurer of ATLA, who will hold and temporarily invest the funds in accordance with the procedures set up by the Executive Committee in June 1960. The Treasurer has completed arrangements for bonding himself; and short-term investments in government securities will be made under the direction of the Decatur Branch of the Atlanta National Bank.

No plans have been made so far for the location of the annual conferences in 1962 and 1963. Librarians who are interested in the possibility of extending an invitation for the conference are requested to initiate preliminary correspondence with the President of ATLA.

Kenneth S. Gapp, President

ELECTION BALLOTS TO BE MAILED MAY 1

INVESTIGATION OF VARIOUS FACTORS AFFECTING HIGH-REDUCTION MICROPHOTOGRAPHY TO BE MADE

Award of a contract to Intectron, Inc., Newton Lower Falls, Mass., for investigation of various factors affecting high-reduction microphotography, was announced recently by the Council on Library Resources, Inc.

The study, to be conducted by Intectron, of which Louis H. Martin is president, is expected to provide a better understanding of high resolution microphotographic processes as applied in information storage and retrieval systems, and is expected to result in the development of working rules of use to documentary photographic laboratories.

The high resolution photographic storage media hold great promise for the future of storage and retrieval systems. Some of these media have resolution capabilities ten or more times greater than conventional microfilm. Though effective use of these capabilities means that more than one hundred times as much information can be stored on the same storage surface area, very little study has been made of the interrelations of the elements of the photographic process when reduction ratios of 100 or more are employed.

Intectron's investigation will endeavor to bring together data on the following, as bearing on high-reduction photography:

1. Scattering of light by photographic materials.
2. The aperture response of optical systems, making use of sine wave (Fourier) analysis.
3. Measurement of the effects of development on resolution and acutance utilizing sine wave response techniques. The effect of the nonlinear relation between exposure and density (ordinary sensitometry and adjacency effects) as related to detail size and processing techniques.
4. Measurement of the loss of detail in production of successive generations from an original microimage.
5. Factors affecting the acceptability of enlargements.

Work on the contract, which is in the amount of $31,755, is expected to take fifteen months. It is expected that the project will provide the designer of documentary photographic processes with the answers to such questions as what combinations of lenses, materials, and techniques should be used so as best to achieve a given high ratio reduction.

WESTERN THEOLOGICAL LIBRARY ASSOCIATION
HOLDS ELEVENTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The eleventh annual conference of the Western Theological Library Association met on February 10, 1961, at Alma College in Los Gatos, California, with President Clara B. Allen, Librarian of the Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, presiding. The principal speaker was Father O'Hanlon of Alma College, whose subject was "The Resurrection: Some Bibliographic Sources." Other speakers addressing the conference were Dr. Arnold D. Ehlert, Librarian of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles in La Mirada, who spoke on "Some Bibliographic Problems in Religious Series," and Dr. Francis L. Bouquet, Librarian of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, who spoke following the dinner meeting.

At the business meeting it was decided to begin work on the Union List of Continuations in Theological Libraries in California, for which Mr. W. R. Denton of the Southern California School of Theology in Claremont will serve as Editor. Dr. Arnold D. Ehlert was appointed Editor of a union list of series which will include lectureships, subject series, publisher's and other similar series. Finally, it was announced that the theological libraries of the San Francisco Bay Area will start a three-month pilot cooperative acquisition program on March 1, 1961, with the Pacific School of Religion Library serving as the clearing center.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Father Francis L. Sheerin, Librarian, Alma College; Vice-president, Miss Genevieve Kelly, Librarian, California Baptist Theological Seminary, Covina; Secretary, Miss Esther Schandorff, Librarian, Pasadena College; Deputy Secretary, Miss Ida Pratt, Berkeley Baptist Divinity School; and Acting Secretary, Mr. James P. Else, Southern California School of Theology.

CONCORDIA SEMINARY BREAKS GROUND FOR NEW LIBRARY

Ground was broken at ceremonies on February 6, 1961, by the Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Missouri, for the Ludwig E. Fuerbringer Hall which, when completed, will house the Seminary's library.

The building will be modern and functional in design but with stone facing to match the Seminary's older buildings. It will contain 44,000 square feet of floor space which will be arranged to house a book collection of 250,000 volumes, to seat approximately 490 persons, and to provide working space for a staff of thirteen full-time persons and some additional part-time assistants. In all areas except office and seminar rooms the building will have over-all luminous ceilings. The entire unit will be air-conditioned and humidity-controlled. Total cost of the building is expected to be approximately one million dollars.

Completion of construction is scheduled for February 1, 1962, with full occupancy expected by June of that year. The Reverend Edgar Krentz is the Librarian.

COUNCIL ON LIBRARY RESOURCES RECEIVES NEW FORD GRANT

The Ford Foundation has announced a grant of $8 million to the Council on Library Resources, Washington, D. C., for research into improved library methods, with emphasis on ways of storing and finding information in the "library of the future."

With part of the new grant, the Council will set up a laboratory to study photographic and electronic techniques designed to cope with the deluge of publications resulting from the accelerated rate of research. The laboratory will also attempt to develop pilot models to improve methods of storing and retrieving information, particularly in large research libraries.

"The Council's work to date encourages hope for important achievements in the drive to keep pace with the vast accumulation of books, periodicals, and pamphlets produced by the rapidly growing knowledge of the twentieth century," William McPeak, a Foundation vice-president, said today. "The solution of major problems standing in the way of the efficiency of research libraries is crucial to the preservation and dissemination of knowledge in society," Mr. McPeak continued. "New advances in the field appear imminent, bringing the ideal library of the future nearer reality."

In working toward a solution of the problem of storage and retrieval of information in research libraries, the Council has already supported the development of significant prototypes pointing toward vastly improved methods of storing and retrieving information, Mr. McPeak said. "The Council is making important contributions to the arrangements by which research libraries meet the needs of their users," Mr. McPeak added. "Results achieved so far indicate that the Foundation's investment in the Council would be returned to society even if no further technical advances were made. Further advances, however, are expected."

Improvements include testing and standardizing of library materials, equipment, and systems; development of mechanical devices for book labeling and catalogue reproduction; the preservation of paper; and improved book bindings.

In cataloguing, the Council has assisted the efforts of library authorities toward an internationally accepted system. A conference will be held in Paris in October, at which, it is hoped, Anglo-American and other experts may reach some agreements on standardization of cataloguing.

The Council has also been experimenting with "cataloguing-in-source," whereby a book would be catalogued before publication. This would enable the publisher to print inside the book itself a catalogue card the size of a postage stamp, which could be quickly photographed in individual libraries. The Council has undertaken to develop a camera that will photograph and print catalogue and cross-reference cards.

In book selection, the Council is giving priority to providing basic reading lists for the small academic library, which, with limited book funds and small staff, must make a selection from the same enormous total of publications as do the university libraries with ample staff and funds.

The plaque read in part, "Many great qualities have manifested themselves in your life and, to us, have become synonymous with the name 'Warnick' Because of your great dedication to God, to your work, and to the needs of others, we have been richly blessed. To you, Mrs. Warnick, who have so greatly helped to 'prepare the way,' we are deeply and humbly grateful."

HARTFORD SEMINARY LIBRARY RECEIVES ACRL GRANT

The Case Memorial Library of the Hartford Seminary Foundation in Hartford, Connecticut, has received a $1,500 grant from the Association of College and Research Libraries to be used toward cataloging and printing a bibliography of the sixteenth and seventeenth-century books in its collection.

NEW PAMPHLETS AVAILABLE

A Revised Edition of the pamphlet, The Architectural Setting for Reformed Worship, by James H. Nichols and Leonard J. Trinterud, has been published by the Presbytery of Chicago of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. The original edition appeared in 1953 but the supply was quickly exhausted. Copies of the revised edition are available at $1.00 each from Mr. Herbert N. Brockway, Presbytery of Chicago, 8 South Dearborn Street, Chicago 3, Illinois.

Dr. Arnold D. Ehlert, Librarian of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles in La Mirada, California, has published a pamphlet entitled The Biblical Novel. A Checklist with an Introductory Essay. It bears the copyright date of 1960 and is No. 1 in the BCH Bibliographic Series. PERIODICALS - BIRTHS AND DEATHS

Volume 1, number 1, of The Church Library Magazine, dated October-November-December 1960, appeared in the fall of 1960. It is to be issued on a quarterly basis by the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in Nashville, Tennessee. Wayne E. Todd is the Editor.

Individual subscriptions are $2.00 a year. Subscriptions and inquiries should be directed to The Church Library Magazine, Sunday School Board, Southern Baptist Convention, 127 Ninth Avenue, North, Nashville 3, Tennessee.

Volume 1, number 1, of the Religious Research Digest was issued in January 1961. It is to be published quarterly by The Christian Research Institute, Inc., Livingston, New Jersey. Walter R. Martin is the Editor-in-Chief and Anthony I. Collarile is the Managing Editor.

In the editorial entitled "Why the Digest?" in the first issue, the editors explain and describe the new journal:

"The Digest has come into existence as a means of dealing with the rise and spread of non-Christian religions and cults, both in the United States and on the foreign mission field. Our goal is three-fold: (1) to provide primary information which will help Christian pastors, missionaries, teachers, and interested laymen to effectively evangelize adherents of the sects; (2) to explain and demonstrate how these false and misleading teachings and methods of propagation may be effectively combatted; and (3) to keep in focus contemporary theological and general religious trends by condensing the best material available from a wide range of sources. The Digest will contain articles, editorials, and contributions by leading Christian writers as they bear on the subject of comparative religions and contemporary religious trends."

The subscription rates for the Religious Research Digest are $2.00 a year in the United States and $2.25 a year in foreign countries. Single issues are .50. Subscriptions and inquiries should be directed to The Christian Research Institute, 122 Beaufort Avenue, Livingston, New Jersey.

World Congregationalism appeared in January 1961 in an enlarged format. The first issue in the new format is numbered vol. 3, no. 7. The no. 7 appears, however, to be a whole number rather than an issue number within a volume.

The expansion of the journal has been made possible by a substantial subsidy from the International Congregational Council. World Congregationalism began publication in January 1959 as the successor to the Congregational Quarterly, which ceased publication in October 1958. The first issue of the new title was numbered simply no. 1.

World Congregationalism will continue to appear three times each year in January, May, and September. The subscription price is $1.00 a year in the United States. Subscriptions and inquiries should be addressed to The International Congregational Council, Memorial Hall, Farrington Street, London E. C. 4, England.

CONTRACT AWARDED TO SEEK WAYS TO FACILITATE READING OF MICROIMAGES

A $49,200 contract with the Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, Ohio, for a 12-month investigation of methods to improve the reading of microimages has been announced by the Council on Library Resources, Inc.

The investigation will be conducted by Battelle's Applied Physics Division, which has been conducting research in the graphic arts since 1933. Battelle's team will seek the technical advice of the microfilm industry in this study.

The research project is prompted by the desirability of improving methods of reading microimages--including development of portable viewers inexpensive enough to be readily available to individuals and providing greater convenience in use. Without greater availability of viewers and increased public acceptance of this form of reading the great potential of microimage systems in library applications will not be realized.

The Battelle team will study the physical and optical factors involved in microimage viewing with the goal of incorporating its findings in a reasonably priced viewer that individuals may purchase and use with as much ease as the average book can be read now.

The program will have five facets:

1. Analysis of microimage viewing to identify the physical and psychophysical factors which influence the pleasure or displeasure reactions in individual readers.
2. Evaluation of these factors as to the degree to which the reading of microimages is pleasurable or objectionable to a reader.
3. Development of ways to change the elements of microimage viewing to make the reaction of the user more pleasurable.
4. Testing these changes and improving them, or making innovations, and arriving at improved combinations of the process elements.
5. Construction and evaluation of one or more demonstration models which could serve as a starting point for the design of prototype and production equipment.

HARTFORD SEMINARY LIBRARY ACQUIRES THREE COLLECTIONS

Three private collections of books totaling 2,500 volumes have recently been acquired by the Case Memorial Library of the Hartford Seminary Foundation in Hartford, Connecticut. The first collection is the library of Mr. John Lucius Astley-Cock who, before his retirement, served on the staff of the Chicago Tribune as Associate Editor of Religion and Education. The second collection is the library of the late Caleb M. Saville, chief engineer of the Metropolitan District Commission in Hartford. His library contains books on history, philosophy and travel. The third collection is the private library of the late Professor Isaac Hollister Hall, whose work in New Testament textual criticism is well known.
